OPENING THE WORLD SINCE 1878

Welcome, everyone. Let's begin by going over today's agenda.

I called this meeting to address the recent updates from the client.

Let's brainstorm some solutions before we choose the best one.

We still need to decide on the location for the event.

Anna will be taking the meeting minutes, so please speak clearly.

We might have to postpone the presentation due to technical issues.

At the end, I'll summarize the key points, so we all leave with a clear plan.

The purpose of today's meeting is to review our progress and agree on the next steps.

We don't have a lot of time left, so let's do a quick wrap-up.

OPENING THE WORLD SINCE 1878

Have a Meeting!

1. Follow-up on a Finished Project

What we'll talk about:

- Review the design we sent last month.
- Ask each teammate what feedback they think the client will give.
- Decide who will call the client and what question we'll ask (e.g., “Did you see the final version?”).

Have a Meeting!

2. Requesting a Meeting to Pitch a New Idea

What we'll talk about:

- Briefly describe the new product/service we will show.
- Choose a date and time that will work for everyone.
- Assign a person to send a short calendar invite and draft a quick intro.

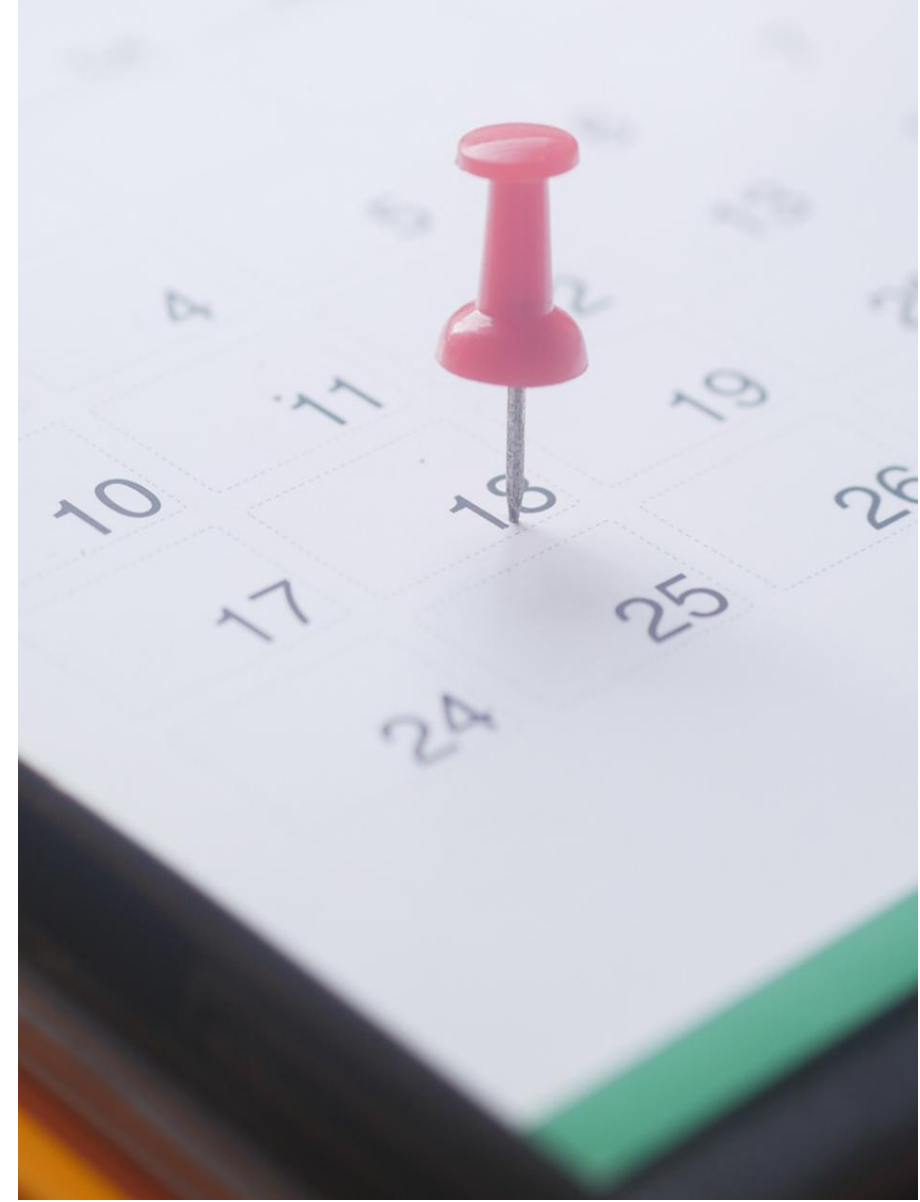

Have a Meeting!

3. Informing the Client about a Schedule Change

What we'll talk about:

- Explain why the delivery day moved (holiday, staff change, etc.).
- Agree on the new delivery date and any extra steps we will take.
- Decide who will call or write to the client and how we'll apologize.

Have a Meeting!

4. Asking for a Reference or Testimonial

What we'll talk about:

- Share the success of the recent workshop and why a testimonial will help.
- Brainstorm a short, friendly question we will ask the client.
- Choose a teammate to follow up and set a reminder for a polite reminder if we don't hear back.
